

I want to learn even more about programming and how to develop the software and more about agile thinking and scrum. My contribution this week has been developing the front screen to the game where you can write your username before you start the game, creating the user class and planning our work. Also helped the team reflection. I think we have improved our work with roles and more effective work, but maybe we should have a clearer plan and user stories for the next sprint.