I want to learn even more about programming and how to develop software and more about agile processes. My contribution this week has been developing the scoreboard with both the visual and functional code. We all planned our sprint. I also helped with the team reflection and trello board. I think we have improved our work even more, clearer roles, help each other, pair programming and better planning with our user stories.