I am very excited to get started with agile work and learn about the process. Unfortunately I was sick this whole week and have not been able to be a part of this first sprint. For the next sprint I hope to catch up on what the group have done and start contributing to the code and team deliverables. Hopefully that also means my individual reflection will be longer next time.