This sprint, me and Maja focused on the graphical interface for the question window. It took longer than I expected. I realized while working with the library that it was a bit more complicated than I thought, so for next sprint I hope that I get a better understanding how to use it and furthermore finishing the screen.

For the next sprint, I also want to get into more code writing, either more towards the backend, but I am also interested in the functionality of the lives and high score. I think that the more I work with the library the more I am going to understand which I am looking forward to.

Since this was the first full sprint of the project, I think we got a pretty good start with a whole week of working. The work has definitely been improved and I think that the roles and workload we had this week has been divided evenly and democratically. Everyone has been contributing and I am pleased with our work.